Organizational Structure

Roack Consult Ltd is an integrated real estate consultancy firm, operating within a dynamic and competitive environment. The firm has adopted a management structure that ensures that assignments/tasks are undertaken and executed promptly without much delay and to the highest quality that exceed typical professional standards. The organizational structure reflects our diverse fields of operations and geographical spread.

Our firm is currently organized and managed as shown on the next page:

The Board of Directors is composed of the technical directors and two independent directors. The “independent directors” are experienced and educated professionals in areas of relevance to our field of operations namely, finance, law, economics and business management. They act as the ‘peace-makers’ in the event that there is divergent views from the technical directors.

The Board of Directors generates the ideas and strategies that guide the operations of the firm. It is the apex of the management team that is responsible to allocate resources to the various business units, setting and overseeing quality control as dictated by professional code of ethics and regularly evaluating performance against overall objectives. It is the organ that contracts and interacts with the clients and the general public.

The Valuation Department is a core division of RCL. The firm, due to the academic and professional training of the directors and key staff, is hugely dependent on valuation assignments. The Department is headed by a Technical Director who is expected to be a full member of ISK, a registered valuer by Valuers Registration Board (VRB) with a minimum of 10 years of continuous professional practice.

The Department is currently headed by Mr. Luke Madende with adequate support from Dr. W. Ojiambo Oundo. The Department has other valuers at different stages of professional qualifications and experience. The generational mix allows for seamless incorporation of new and old ideas and it is a succession strategy as well.

The Department is built on the concept of information exchange. In this regard, the Department routinely holds a ‘valuation court’ where all valuations are ruthlessly interrogated and subjected to rigorous peer-review. This process ensures that our valuation reports are of unmatched quality in the profession.

The other layers of the firm have adequate delegated authority to make professional decisions subject to the overall vision, mission, core values and standard operating procedures. The specific professional/business teams regularly meet and interact to set targets and devise rules and procedures of achieving the said targets within the broad framework and strategy.

Members of Staff

In this increasingly sophisticated and brain-based economy, the best assets of any organization, especially a consultancy firm, are the people who are engaged to provide the services. General Collin Powell (former Chief of Staff of US Armed Forces) said that “organizations, on their own, do not accomplish anything.....Endeavors succeed or fail because of the people involved. Only attracting the best people will an organization accomplish great deeds”.
